Highlights

- Countries continued to reopen their economies from COVID-19 shutdowns, although data indicates a potential second wave of COVID infections. More than 125,000 Americans have died from COVID-19, while the global death toll reached 500,000.
- The stock market rally continued in June; the S&P 500 returned 20.5% for the second quarter, its strongest quarterly performance since 1998.
- The U.S. economy created 4.8 million jobs in June, which exceeded most economists' forecasts; the unemployment rate fell by 2.2 percentage points to 11.1%.
- MAF, USEF, IEF and FIF outperformed their respective benchmarks in June. IPF underperformed its benchmark for the month.

Monthly Overview

Strong Monthly and Quarterly Investment Returns

June and the second quarter saw strong investment returns across equity and fixed income markets. The S&P 500 closed the second quarter with its largest percentage gain since the fourth quarter of 1998, though the difficult first quarter heavily influenced year-to-date performance of -3.1%. Most broad equity indexes remain in negative territory for the year, but the tech-heavy NASDAQ is the exception, returning 12.7% year to date. Below-investment-grade corporate bonds returned 1.0% in June and 10.2% for the second quarter, partially reversing first quarter weakness.

Employment Gains

The U.S. added 4.8 million nonfarm jobs in June, lowering the unemployment rate from 13.3% to 11.1%. The May and June reports showed a trend of job creation as COVID-related restrictions were liberalized and economic activity increased. Jobs in the leisure and hospitality sectors rose sharply, as these sectors were hit the hardest earlier in the year. Nevertheless, since February, 12 million jobs have been lost in the U.S.

Reopening and Reassessing

Evidence suggests that reopening from coronavirus lockdowns has increased the rate of new COVID-19 infections across the U.S., generating a reassessment of reopening. Some states and cities are changing their plans and restoring restrictions amid a rapid increase in coronavirus infections.

The Big Picture

Returning to pre-COVID-19 economic output may take years, but investors appear to have confidence in the swift and unprecedented fiscal and monetary policy response from the world's central banks and governments. According to the International Monetary Fund (IMF), global fiscal support has totaled $9 trillion. In the U.S., the key fiscal policy response totaled approximately $3 trillion, or 14% of 2019 GDP. Since the pandemic started, U.S. monetary policy has also been swift. Notably, the Federal Reserve (Fed) lowered interest rates to near zero and increased the assets on its balance sheet to $7 trillion by deploying a quantitative easing (Q.E.) program. The Fed has also provided liquidity to overnight and repo markets and intervened directly in corporate credit markets—all to "support the economy and the flow of credit to U.S. households and businesses."

Investment Fund Review (Net-of-Fees Performance)<sup>i</sup>

Equity Funds

U.S. Equity Fund

U.S. Equity Fund	+2.98%	+24.33%	-1.98%
Russell 3000 Index	+2.29%	+22.03%	-3.48%
Difference (percentage points)	+0.69	+2.30	+1.50

- During the June, quarter-to-date and year-to-date time periods, the fund outperformed the benchmark due largely to growth-oriented active managers with exposure to numerous e-commerce businesses better positioned to succeed through the pandemic. Underweights to poor performing value-oriented companies and poor-performing stocks excluded in compliance with Wespath's Exclusions policy also benefitted relative performance (described here).

International Equity Fund

Fund	June	QTD	YTD

Difference (percentage points)	+0.93	+2.95	+3.30

- During all three time periods, the fund benefited most from the majority of active managers outperforming their respective benchmarks—in particular, a growth-oriented manager focused in developed markets and a dedicated emerging markets manager with outperforming investments in China and Brazil. Stocks excluded from the fund in compliance with Wespath's Exclusions policy also benefitted relative performance.
